

SuperYachts Need Super Homes
and La Paz is the perfect place to tie up

LA PAZ, Mexico (August 15, 2006) While visitors to YachtFest San Diego this September are exploring some of the world's largest and most luxurious superyachts, they will also be able to discover the latest hot spot in Mexico for owners of all boat sizes. Due north of the north end of La Paz Channel, Marina CostaBaja is the nearest one to the Sea of Cortez, what Jacques Cousteau called "The Aquarium of the World," with its superlative deep-water fishing, cruising and abundant water sports. The nearby islands of Isla Espiritu Santo, and the adjacent Isla Partida and Los Islotes, are now protected lands and offer many interesting anchorages and access to pristine white sand beaches, all within an easy day-sail of one another.

Marina CostaBaja, managed by BellPort of Newport Beach, California, is part of the 500-acre CostaBaja Resort & Marina, a major new development in the increasingly more popular destination for Americans—La Paz. With 250 prime slips for vessels of 30 to 200 feet, guests are enjoying top quality amenities, which include a state-of-the-art pump-out system servicing each slip, concrete Bellingham Marine docks, metered electricity and desalinated water hook-ups at each slip plus crew lounge with satellite television, restrooms and showers, secure dock boxes with integrated lighting, fuel dock on premises, and 24-hour security and staff. Wireless telephone and Internet soon to be added.

Another benefit is the 120-room Fiesta Inn that conveniently sits between the basins. The hotel provides free access for marina tenants to its two pools, fitness center, business center with guest computers, restaurant, and bar. The picturesque Pueblo Marinero, the village that surrounds the inner basin, has shops, galleries, restaurants, cafes, grocery store and a family entertainment area. La Paz, a charming authentic Mexican town, is just fifteen minutes away by the free shuttle provided to marina and hotel guests.
